

China Know-How 2019

Costs and funding opportunities of course A

The costs for course A amount to approx. €2.900,- (calculation as of December 2019). Students studying at Austrian universities which are members of Eurasia-Pacific Uninet can apply for an Eurasia-Pacific Uninet scholarship amounting to prospectively approx. €500,-. Participants can also apply for a scholarship at the respective home university.

The costs of approx. €2.900,- include the following:

- Full program fees of the Chinese universities and for the accompanying program
- Accommodation in four- and five-star hotels and student dormitories (two-bedrooms, including breakfast and Internet)
- Train rides between the cities visited in the frame of the program
- Organization fee and a small reserve for unforeseen events

Airfare and visa fees are not included in the program fee.

Please note that this figure serves as a guiding price. It is not to be taken as an exact amount. The exact price depends on the currency exchange rate at the time of the payments.

After the confirmation of participation, the participant is required to pay a deposit of €500,-. This amount (minus the organization fee) will be paid back to the participant after the end of the summer school (together with the Eurasia-Pacific Uninet scholarship – if applicable/granted).

The costs for the flight have to be added to the amount of €2.900,-. The reservation flights are to be made by oneself. Each participant can choose the airline, the routing and the booking date himself/herself.

A travel insurance is strongly recommended by the organizer. A health insurance for travel abroad is of utmost importance. The insurance might also include flight cancellation insurance and luggage insurance. If there is no existing insurance coverage, a travel insurance must be taken out by the participant himself/herself.

Financing of course A

Further information

1. Unless a scholarship or grant is awarded (see below) each participant has to meet the costs of the participation himself/herself.
2. The Austrian Federal Ministry of Science, Research and Economics provides Eurasia-Pacific Uninet with scholarships for the China Know-How summer school. The scholarship to be awarded to students studying at Austrian universities or other institutions of higher education participating in Eurasia-Pacific Uninet will likely amount to approx. €500,-.
3. Regardless of the above, students can and shall additionally apply for a scholarship for subject-specific courses (“fachspezifische Kurse”) at the office for international relations of their home university in accordance with the rules and guidelines for grants laid down by the university. This applies especially to students from the Austrian universities and universities of applied sciences. Please check off the respective box in the application form.
4. Some provincial governments, as well as other public or private institutions may also award scholarships to certain categories of students. The individual institutions concerned shall be directly contacted by the participant.
5. Employees and other interested parties wanting to participate in this program have to meet the costs of participation either at company expense, other funding, or from private means.
